

The background image is a photograph of The Lygon Arms, a historic hotel in Bath, England. The building is constructed from light-colored stone and features multiple gables and numerous multi-paned windows. A large, leafless tree stands in the courtyard in front of the building. To the left, a traditional wooden signpost with a crest is visible. A Union Jack flag flies on a pole in the courtyard. The overall scene is set during the day under a clear sky.
